MIGHTY GATHERING OF WOMEN HELD AT CAPITAL THIS WEEK FOR REFORM

Women's Organization for National Reform Means Real Temperance and Practical Control of Liquor—Mrs. Stella Gex, State Vice Chairman.

Mississippi women will enthusiastically join forces with women repeal leaders of the nation in a mighty gathering at Washington, April 4-6th, it was announced by Mrs. J. Ed. Franklin.

Mrs. Franklin, who is state chairman of the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform, announced the following delegates appointed to represent Mississippi at the conference.

Mrs. D. H. Foreman, Meridian, State Director; Mrs. John Cain, Jr., Summit; Mrs. Ben D. Moore, Hattiesburg and Miss Stella A. Gex, Bay St. Louis, Vice-Chairman; Mrs. F. W. Mills, Enterprise, Secretary; Mrs. J. L. Blackwell, Vicksburg, Warren County Chairman; and Mrs. N. T. Levings, Moorhead, Sunflower County Chairman.

The Washington Conference will be the fourth annual meeting of the organization. Sessions will be held at the Mayflower Hotel, and delegates "will perfect plans of securing ratification of the repeal resolution, by the necessary 30 states and for the promotion of state and liquor control legislation," according to Mrs. Chas. H. Sablin, National Chairman of the organization.

Mrs. Sarah Schuyler Butler, daughter of Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University, will address the delegates on the afternoon of the 5th. Miss Butler served for nearly ten years as vice-chairman of the New York State Republican Committee. This will be her first anti-prohibition speech. A banquet for the delegates the same day will be followed by a public meeting to be addressed by Repealists of national prominence. One session of the conference will be devoted to the subject of state liquor control, at which Mrs. Edward W. Root of Clinton New York will preside.

The organization's work for practical liquor control and real temperance has already received official recognition in New York, Massachusetts, Ohio and Rhode Island. In each of these states a member of the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform has been appointed by the Governor to serve on the state liquor commission.

Mrs. Franklin stresses the fact that Mississippi women "are not concerned about the ultimate outcome of ratification if the state legislatures provided for the election of delegates at large to be voted in the manner of presidential electors."

She says the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform was the first national group to adopt as its policy "straight repeal of the 18th Amendment, and the first organization to advocate the convention method of ratification."

This follows a precedent carried out at Cleveland three years ago, when 300 women representing a membership of 100,000 in thirty states at that time, unanimously pledged themselves to work for repeal.

She says the national organization has grown to approximately 1,500,000 women in every state.

Repeal work is being carried out in Hancock county under the very able leadership of Miss Stella A. Gex, State Vice-Chairman, and Mrs. Douglas Bourgeois, Chairman for city of Bay St. Louis. Miss Gex reports that the women of Hancock county are responding to this call in a very enthusiastic manner.

BESIDE THE BAY

How oft I sat beside the wave,
The waters of the bay;
My hopes into its heart I gave,
And now I'm far away.

How oft I wandered on the sand,
Gazing far out to sea;
My thoughts strayed out in spirit's hand,
Weaving sweet dreams for me.

How oft I stood in silent night,
Silver on water's breast;
What visions in the moonbeams bright,
Singing my heart to rest.

How oft my heart was tuned to day
In sunshine's golden glance;
How oft I watched the waves at play,
In whistling winds' mad dance.

But now the waters roll so far,
Taken away from me,
All that is left is memory's star,
With hopes dear bay to see.

Question of Land Ownership Decided in Federal Court at Yazoo City Friday.

A case determining the prior rights between city and county over the sale of property advertised for taxes was decided before Judge E. R. Holmes of the southern district of federal court, sitting during vacation in Yazoo City Friday.

The case, in which Miss Stansbury sued the city of Bay St. Louis, occupied the entire day of the court, Judge Holmes rendering his decision in favor of Miss Stansbury.

The assessed valuation of the property was $10,000 and is known as Alta Vista Subdivision.

'Singing' Pascagoula Is Again Chanting Its Song

By James H. Street.
The Pascagoula river is chanting its spring litanies again—a song no man understands. It's origin is a mystery, it's meaning is an enigma.

The stream—moody songster of the South's river clan—really chants a kind, eerie rhythm at certain seasons. Some say the ghastly music is the croak of a fish. Others say it's the whine of the river and wind as they play around the cypress knees.

And others who are more romantic than accurate say the chant is the requiem of the Pascagoula Indians—a lost tribe whose legends tell that the Indians joined hands and marched into the river, singing a song of hate of white men and white men's ways.

Be what it may, the chant is distinct sufficiently to attract travelers who come for miles and miles to marvel at the river's strange behavior.

The Pascagoula is a fickle stream that rises in southeast Mississippi and gushes into the gulf. It twists and bends like a constrictor in agony. A few hardwood mills flank its banks. Sullen alligators float on its dark waters.

Just before it swells its chest and pours into the gulf, the river eddies through cypress swamps—dark, musty grottoes. And there at night the chant is heard.

The moon rises with a jerk over the Pascagoula, and hanging like a yellow lantern over the gaunt cypress shadows across the stream. A damp wind, heavy with the burdens of its spring mission, rocks the trees, and then the river sings.

A white first—like the cry of a colt lost from its mother. Then an eerie, low-pitched shriek. And next a moan—a sigh that might be the murmur of the east wind through the cypress swamps.

The moon sets and the dawn scatters the river mist over the gulf before the song is ended. And the Pascagoula by day is just another river, a harbor for the bustling little city that bears its name.

Step on 'Em.
"What's the matter with your feet?"
"I've got corns."
"Why don't you do something for them?"

"Why should I? They've never done anything for me."—Passing Show.

VISITORS ENJOY DAY AT PINE HILLS GOLF CLUB SUNDAY

Inter-City Match Between Picayune and Local Golfers Creates Much Interest.

Pine Hills Clubhouse and golf course was the scene Sunday of an interesting match between ten players from Picayune and players from Bay St. Louis and Pass Christian. The visitors were pleased with the course and enjoyed the day immeasurably.

Starting play in the morning the foursomes made a full day of it, having lunch at the clubhouse. The teams were evenly matched and the final scores were close. The Picayune players included, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Roland, Harry Hopper, P. Daniels, Art Stevens, Preston Hughes, K. Knight, Dr. Barney, Alex Martin and M. Brunson. The local players were L. H. Barksdale, Dr. Henry Tate, Mrs. Peggy Gause, S. H. Deaux, C. G. McDonald, Sidney W. Frague, Bill Jones, Fred Sutter, L. Genin, Bob Mitchell. The local team won by a score of 19-10.

This inter-city tournament was the first of a series to be held with other cities on the Coast and New Orleans. It is the intention of Mr. Dedaux, the manager, and Pro. Dodge to have these matches often and the devotees of golf are becoming more and more interested and are looking forward to many week-end contests.

The numbers playing at Pine Hills are increasing weekly and with the summer season coming on much is in prospect. New Orleans visitors are already making their appearance and according to the large number having last Sunday it is beginning to look like old times at this pleasure resort.

Course in Excellent Condition.

Through the work and efforts of Mr. Dedaux improvements have been many and the course at present is in excellent shape, with the fairways well mowed and the roughs cleared, the grass smooth, with an abundance of new grass. The traps are well kept and add much to the lay of the land. New benches have been placed on the tees and new flags mark the greens. All in all it is a sports course and one of the best in the South.

Other attractions added by the new management includes the Saturday night dances which will be resumed the first Saturday after Easter. Good music is always furnished and enjoyable times are in store for all who attend.

As to golf, Pro Dodge is anxious to have more ladies playing the game as an inducement he offers to give the ladies free instructions on all Tuesdays, which are ladies' days. It is hoped that those of the fair sex interested will take advantage of this unusual opportunity.

Something New!
It has been planned to hold a "strip" golf match shortly. That is a game will be played between four-somes, and as each player loses a whole he will have to discard some piece of clothing at the request of his opponent. It will afford lots of fun and the public is invited to witness the match which will be free of charge. More will be written next week regarding this tournament.

FORMER DISTRICT ATTORNEY COWAN IN RACE FOR APRIL 18.

Candidate for Vacancy Left By Congressman Colmer—Promise to Cut Court Costs.

R. C. Cowan, who made his first political race when he was 21 and has never been defeated, presents this week his candidacy for district attorney in the special election called for April 18 to select a successor to Congressman W. M. Colmer, resigned.

Mr. Cowan's record in office is one which bespeaks the confidence of the voters of this district in his integrity and ability. He was elected floater representative of Harrison and Jackson counties during the same year he became eligible to vote, and later was appointed county prosecuting attorney when that office was first created. His conduct at the latter post was such as to bring re-election twice.

In 1915, with his county experience back of him, Mr. Cowan entered the race for prosecuting attorney of the second circuit court district made up of Harrison, Jackson, George and Stone counties. Again he was elected, and again his performance in office won for him reelection in 1923.

Mr. Cowan's intimate acquaintance with the people and conditions of the district is born of a lifetime of residence within its boundaries. Son of D. D. Cowan, who for fifty years was connected with schools of the Gulf Coast, he has lived since boyhood in the counties of the second district.

His professional qualifications likewise commend him to the electorate. The twenty-five years he has spent in the practice of law at Harrison county, as legislator, as county attorney, and as district attorney present a background excellently appropriate for the office he seeks. Educated in Coast public schools, at A. & M. College, and at the University of Mississippi he has studied law since he was too young to practice it, and has built through the years a reputation for fairness and fearlessness in the practice of his profession.

Particularly appealing to the voter is the record of economy established by Mr. Cowan during previous terms of office. Diligent in the prosecution of offenders, he was none the less careful to save the taxpayer money wherever possible in the summoning and use of witnesses, and in jury service. He declares that if elected for the remainder of the present term he will keep the expenses of his office to the absolute minimum consistent with efficiency and the faithful protection of the citizenry of the district.

WITH THE MOVIES AND FILM FOLKS

(For The Sea Coast Echo)
"RKO-Radio plans to team John Barrymore with Katherine Hepburn in a new story. Their appearance in "A Bill of Divorcement" won much approval.

After a week of bickering and with some accusations of bad faith, the employment situation was settled last week with the vast majority of employees not affected or reduced only a small amount. The brunt of the economy drive was borne by high priced executives and stars.

Lee Tracy has lined up with MGM after some months of freelancing. Eddie Cantor's next story will have a Roman background. The story will be the work of George S. Kaufman and Robert Sherwood.

Dorothy Wieck, the sympathetic teacher in "Maedchen in Uniform," is on her way to the Paramount studios in Hollywood for an American motion picture career.

"The American," by Lamar Trotti to be produced by Fox is based upon the life of Mayor Cermak. It is said that the synopsis was written on a single sheet of paper, accepted ten minutes later and scheduled for production within half an hour. This is said to be a record.

"Dinner at Eight," the first MGM production by David O. Selznick has a cast which includes, at this time, Marie Dressler, Wallace Berry, Lionel Barrymore, Jean Harlowe, Karen Morley, Madge Evans and Lee Tracy.

FLAMES DESTROY HOTEL ANNEX AT MISSISSIPPI CITY

Portion of Hotel Reduced to Ashes in Hour's Time—Furniture Saved.

The Anniston hotel annex at Mississippi City was destroyed Monday afternoon by fire of undetermined origin. Fanned by a strong north-west wind, the two-story frame structure was reduced to ashes in less than one hour, notwithstanding the efforts of fire equipment sent by the Gulfport and Biloxi fire departments. The firemen, however, succeeded in saving Major Bland's residence, on the southwest corner of the Gulf Coast Military academy campus.

There were no guests in the annex but a quantity of furniture which the building contained was moved by cadets from the academy to a point on the beach between the boulevard and the scawall. Some of the furniture, however, was destroyed later by flames which swept through the oak trees and across the boulevard.

Although the main section of the hotel was not endangered, due to the direction of the wind, guests and hotel employees moved furniture and other articles to points of safety. Traffic on the boulevard was tied up during the progress of the fire. The hotel property is owned by the Saja-mada, Inc., of New Orleans and Mrs. Marie Dauphin, formerly of New Orleans, has been operating the hotel.

The resolution was presented by Alderman J. M. Buchanan.

Declaring that "our neighboring states have approved the modification of the Volstead act, and through legislative enactment, have signified their willingness to let the people vote on the subject of the repeal of the eighteenth amendment," the resolution added:

"Since 3.2 per cent beer will be for sale in the surrounding territory, and will be bootlegged and otherwise illegally brought into Mississippi, and will be generally distributed in our state, x x x we will be robbed of the revenue that legitimate handling of this product would create, and moral and social conditions cannot be benefited or improved by delaying the matter."

Smith, both of Bay St. Louis, awards received in the finals of State competition for best essays on the traffic dangers of highway and street and how to avoid them. In the county competition the winners, awarded medals were in the order named: Edith Jacobs, Carl T. Smith, Jr., and Joyce Wolf. The contest locally was under auspices Clement R. Bontemps Post, No. 139. The State prize winning essays are published below, each under its own heading and classification. It might be well to practice the suggestion and heed the advice.

TRAFFIC DANGERS OF THE STREETS AND HIGHWAYS AND HOW TO AVOID THEM.

BY MISS EDITH JACOBS.
Most accidents can be avoided. A person hit by an automobile while walking usually blames the driver of the automobile by which he was struck. Often this may be justified, not always. The person who walks should be careful in crossing the street, especially at crossroads and "blind" corners. The walker should not cross carelessly.

The automobile driver should be equally careful. When coming around a corner the driver should lower his speed, blow his horn, wait a few seconds, and if getting no response, cross or turn, which ever he intends to do.

Many accidents occur when one is stepping from an automobile, trolley car, bus or truck. One should alight from the sidewalk, not the street-side. On the other hand, a driver when driving near a bus, should watch for sudden stops. Traffic lights at crossings should be carefully heeded. Not only heeded but obeyed. If walkers cross only at corners, many accidents and traffic jams can be avoided. The driver should know on what side of the street he belongs and keep on it.

Where the road crosses a railroad is often the scene of accidents. Some know the schedule of the passenger and express trains. Remember there are such things as freights and extras. Whether or not one knows the time of the regular trains, stop, look and listen before crossing a railroad track.

ACCIDENTS OF THE STREETS AND HIGHWAYS. HOW TO AVOID THEM.

BL CARL T. SMITH, JR.
Many unnecessary accidents occur every year that could be avoided with the aid of the children, parents and of the government officials.

The older boys and girls should have State Inspectors to not set bad examples for them to follow.

In the larger towns and cities playgrounds should be provided for the boys and girls and make it necessary and unlawful to play in the streets.

The police should enforce the traffic laws much more than they do and the public should abide by them.

In many cases someone has to be killed or seriously injured before the Government will put up a traffic light, straighten out a curve or make a railroad crossing safe.

Many streets have, and others should have State Inspectors to inspect the brakes, lights, horns, etc., of the cars to make the highways safe.

Underpasses are fast taking the place of railroad crossings and should be encouraged a lot more. The railroads, business, and State road Commissioners should co-operate and try to eliminate the hazards of the highways.

If the children and public would carry out the following rules, many serious accidents could be avoided.

1. Do not skate in the streets.
2. Do not hang on moving cars or trucks.
3. Do not cross a street without looking both ways.
4. Always stop, look and listen before crossing a railroad.

SYMPATHY FOR CYCLONE VICTIMS.

THE Sea Coast Echo and our people sympathize with the unfortunates who were caught in the path of the cyclone of last week-end, affecting parts of Louisiana, Mississippi and Tennessee, taking a toll in life and property, the latter hardly to be figured in dollars so great the extent of damage.

It is a heroic people who suffer the loss of their loved ones and neighbors and friends elsewhere and who hardly recovered from the shock resolve to again build and to carry on.

Mississippi Coast and territory immediately adjacent is fortunate in instances of this kind and we are thankful to that Providence which creates the adverse forces of nature from which we are spared. It is for this and other reasons in particular this section enjoys a country-wide favor. Free from the furies of elements, such as wind, water and not forgetting the recent seismic disturbances of the west, with its health-giving properties, nature seems to have caused to be located here one of its ideal spots. Where one loves to live, the visitor wont to linger and the home-seeker welcome.

PUBLICITY MEANS ECONOMY.

THE ECHO has suggested many times that national, state and local governments, including every public agency that expends public funds, should be required to give more informative reports. In fact, it is the essence of Democratic government that all citizens be kept accurately informed about public finance and we believe that this duty rests upon all public officials.

The Echo believes that the best and cheapest form of publicity can be obtained through the newspapers of the nation. However, if there are available better methods to inform the public, these should be adopted.

We are glad to call attention to the resolution passed by the Certified Public Accountants of New York, who, at a meeting held recently, went on record in favor of financial statements by governmental agencies "as clear and informative" as those employed by the most advanced businesses. The accountants named a committee to furnish assistance to any governmental agency that might wish its aid in keeping an accurate check upon its financial status.

A GOOD DEED A DAY.

CREED of the boy scouts is to perform at least one good deed a day and well may this be extended to the adult in further pursuit of daily happiness and personal satisfaction.

It is a splendid gesture and serves as an earnest of our determination of betterment to ourselves and well-being. A good deed a day will lead to other practices and widen the scope of helpfulness. Happy is he who performs a good deed, in one and many ways and the tenet of the boy scouts creed appeals in more ways than one.

To do charity, to alleviate suffering, to offer assistance that may prove palliative to the ailing, costing so little and meaning much. To forget the shortcomings of others, to turn a deaf ear to gossip and slander are a few of the many virtues that may be practiced at no cost. This is no preachment, not intended for such, but to commend the boy scout and his practice of one good deed a day. A thing sublime and exemplary. Let's begin today. One good deed a day.

NATIONAL ECONOMY.

In his special message to Congress asking for executive authority to reduce federal expenditures and pensions President Roosevelt called attention to the recent tendency to increase the federal deficit by saying:

"For three long years the Federal Government has been on the road to bankruptcy. . . . Thus, (by June 30, 1934) we shall have piled up an accumulated deficit of $5,000,000,000. Too often liberal governments have been wrecked on the rocks of loose fiscal policy. We must avoid this danger. . . ."

Congress has given President Roosevelt the power to make certain reductions and the country is expecting the Chief Executive to do so. Practically all national expenses will be reduced. Payments to veterans for disabilities not connected with military service will be sharply curtailed and pensions to various individuals will be given an income-test, which means that men who do not need a federal pension will have theirs eliminated or reduced.

BEAUTIFYING THE HOME PREMISES.

CITY of Bay St. Louis and county of Hancock authorities cultivating gardens around courthouse and city hall well show an example of public beautification, costing so little effort and expense, that would be well to carry out on the home premises of every resident, particularly of this section, where such beauty forms an asset of inestimable value in attracting others to visit and stay.

The writer once visited a city where every front yard is a perfect lawn and every backyard a garden producing flowers of vibrant color and hues of intriguing shades. It was marvelous as a result and accomplished at so little effort and cost, the latter practically nil. Property in this city visited sustains value because of this attention and as a further result resolves into a "city beautiful."

TRUE TO PRE-ELECTION PLEDGES.

TRUE to campaign pledges, President Roosevelt is meeting every expectation and it might well be said we are on the threshold of a new era. Such drastic measures, as adopted and put into execution, with more to follow cannot but mean a change in our economic being and pursuit.

Operating on a gigantic scale, President Roosevelt has worked exercising the wide scope of prerogatives given him by Congress. He has used the pruning knife, intelligently, even though cutting to the bone. On the other hand he is engaged in creating labor for two hundred and fifty thousand men. That in one instance. He is at work on a measure that will relieve the farmer from the burden of mortgage, proposing to let the government assume the obligation at such low interest as 4 1/2 per cent, the principal to be paid back over practically an unlimited time. We are not prepared nor qualified to discuss these measures as to their respective merits or demerits, but one thing certain and that is that President Roosevelt has already accomplished, present and prospective, more than the terms of Hoover and Coolidge, without wishing to make comparisons but simply to impress to a greater sense of realization the accomplishment of the new chief executive.

As a result it is but natural to expect that the ban to normal conditions will gradually self-lift our people back to the fruit of those things which make for happiness. The world will continue to watch. We have every confidence in our new leader and hopeful for the immediate future.

TRAVEL PRICES SLASHED.

APPARENTLY in answer to the charge that railroads ask too much for carrying passengers, the Louisville & Nashville railroad, answers that indictment this week with a slash in fares without precedent.

Announcement to the effect that the Easter week-end rate from New Orleans to Bay St. Louis and return for $1.04, and good for so many days, is hardly believable. One cannot readily conceive how it is done. Nevertheless the 2-cent a mile rate is in effect and it is already indicated there will be a slashing in rates this summer that ought to fill the coaches and provide patronage for numerous trains.

Travel by rail is one of the recognized modes of transportation. To let it decay for want of patronage will result in not only the loss of this business but of many industries depending thereon largely.

Change of rates, cutting prices of tickets to the breaking point will be watched with interest. There should be very little excuse in future for staying at home, and not traveling by railroad.

Slash by the L. & N. line should redound to the benefit of the Gulf Coast. Thousands will come hither this summer, it would seem, who otherwise, would be content to stay at home or indulge in other outings of minor cost, restricted in distance as well as in diversion.

IMPOSING HIS CONVICTION.

GOVERNOR Mike Conner, with all praise for the successes of his administration to date, refuses to consider the proposition that repeal or modification of the "liquor laws" be considered just now. He says there are other things far more important and that such consideration does not appeal to sense of duty, even though the people might be clamoring for such consideration.

Incidentally, as it were, he impresses the public with the fact that he is PERSONALLY DRY, never touches a drop, and the assumption follows that because he is personally dry the State must do as Caesar wishes.

This is an outstanding example of inflicting one's personal conviction on the public and as a result, while the Governor will receive the plaudits of the dregs, the condemnation of the many who wish the return of personal rights and who recognize the needs of revenue for a denuded treasury of counties and State, as well as cities, will rise in indignation.

No one has the right to impose his personal conviction from high office on to individual or proletariat. Gov. Conner enjoys the respect and confidence of the people of his State and we want him to so continue in order he may serve a government by the people and for the people. It is the wise man who changes his mind. He may do it yet.

GOLF AT OUR DOOR.

THE fact that Pine Hills golf clubhouse and course, under new management is attracting more than ordinary attention and subsequently increased patronage, it is well to note this marked improvement as a sign of the times.

Golf is one of the recognized sports of today, representing and giving not only pastime, recreation but health, to say nothing of the point of contact thus supplied to both men and women. Outdoor sports make for better bodies and minds, promoting better social and general relations and since golf is no more a rich man's game, as prejudice formerly gave birth to such thought, it is now within the reach of practically every one.

Possibly the South has not been as quick as in northern localities to catch the drift of playing golf. To our people new and added advantages are constantly offered. In the name of better bodies and cleaner minds, good sport and recreation the game is to be commended and the fact excellent and inexpensive golf facilities are now offered at our very door it behooves all who may to embrace the opportunity.

REFORESTATION.

THE favor accorded to the plan for putting the unemployed to work in the woods brings the general subject of forestry to mind. There is little real forestry practiced in this country. Europe can teach us along that line. Over there a timber tree is considered worthy of as much care as a fruit tree.

The idea is beginning to spread abroad that much of the money being spent for direct relief to the unemployed is not accomplishing much more than a dole would achieve.

SAUNTERINGS. From Where The West Begins.

By JOHN T. MEYERS
(For the Sea Coast Echo)

THURSDAY, April 6th., marked the 16th anniversary of the declaration of war by United States against a foreign power. Today, a number of states in the United States have gone 'over the top' against prohibition, that sinister arch-enemy of personal liberty.

The call to arms was sounded at the polls last November. At this time an overwhelming majority of the American people throughout the entire nation definitely and emphatically voiced their disapproval of the 18th amendment.

Governors, senators, congressmen, members of state legislatures and other officials elected to public office, and paid good salaries by the commonwealth they represent, are honor bound to abide by the will and voice of the people.

For an official to withhold action that would deny his individual state the right and privilege to follow the precedent handed down by the very heart of this government would seem little short of tyranny.

Every school child knows by heart these lines: A GOVERNMENT OF THE PEOPLE, FOR THE PEOPLE, AND BY THE PEOPLE.

To reason that any state official could unintentionally misinterpret this mandate would tend to throw reflection upon their intelligence. That would be a serious affair.

To assume that they knowingly and unpatriotically failed to abide by the just demands thereof would lead to an unwholesome belief that strings were being pulled by some selfish factional minority, making political puppets of men who would be pitting personal gain against the financial and moral welfare of the state they represent. This would, indeed, be a serious state of affairs.

HERE are three Jugo Slav proverbs that contain advice worth remembering:

If you wish to know what a man is, place him in authority.

Condemn a man within his hearing, praise him when he is away.

Show me a friend who will weep with me; those who will laugh with me I can find myself.

HERE'S a "rattling" good story on the experience of an eastern tourist visiting San Antonio. Driving along a highway leading to the city from the hill country, this motorist overtook a young cowboy "rudging along with a sack flung across his shoulder."

Eager to get acquainted with a real cowboy, the easterner stopped, pretended to ask a direction, and finally invited the tangle-haired gent to accept a lift. This he did gladly, taking a seat beside the driver, and carelessly setting his sack on the floorboard at his feet. Everything was running smoothly until the cowboy's sack wiggled against his host's foot.

"What have you got in that sack?" he asked with growing alarm. "Oh, just a couple of rattlesnakes I caught this morning. Want to see 'em pardner?" innocently drawled the man from the open spaces.

But the easterner heard nothing but the word rattlesnakes. In his excitement he barely missed a telephone post, before he skidded the car to a halt, and begged his guest to tie his sack of "rattlers" outside on the bumper. It's a sure bet that in the future this tourist will step on the gas whenever he spots anyone in southwest Texas carrying a sack along the highway, or anywhere else for that matter.

RATTLESNAKES are beginning to crawl about at this time.

Manv of the Mexican ranch hands, armed with forked stick and sack, can be found tracking down the giant rattlesnakes to be found in this section of Texas. The snakes are sold to dealers and there is always a ready market. Snake hunters are being paid 10 cents a pound for their catch. This occupation is by far more profitable than the average wage paid by rancher and farm owners.

The captured snakes are used for various purposes. The poisonous fluid is extracted from the rattlers' fangs to be used as an anti-toxin serum in the numerous cases of snake bites hereabouts. Snake oil is used to relieve muscular aches and pains, it is said. The skin is made into belts, purses, and stylish shoes for the ladies. It's rattlers are sold in curio stores. Someone reminds that rattlesnake meat is used as a food, being canned and sold for this purpose in Florida. No thanks I'm not very hungry today.

NEXT to having a tooth pulled, or the first signs of a bald spot, the average man detests puffing on a brand-new pipe. But this unpleasant ordeal must be endured before the pipe smoker can load up the bowl with his favorite tobacco, hoist his feet on the desk, relax, and let the cares of life disperse amid the curling smoke rings floating aimlessly about.

While putting the first 500 puffs on the puffometer of a new briar recently, a veteran smoker observed our discomfort and suggested a few short cut methods for getting a speedy tobacco coating inside the pipe. For the information of fellow puffers, we pass the word along.

Soak the pipe in sweet cream overnight, next morning wipe dry, and load 'er up. Another scheme is to moisten the bowl fill with sugar, then empty, set sugar coating that clings to bowl dry, fill up with the

WHAT THE PRESS SAYS.

WHAT HAPPENED IN ANOTHER TOWN.

(Jena (La.) Times)

ONCE upon a time there was a town that had a score of merchants. It so happened that only one of the merchants believed in advertising. For awhile this merchant advertised liberally and brought large crowds of buyers to his store. His fellow merchants, seeing all the trade going to his store, did with one accord tack various and sundry signs in front of their stores, advertising low prices on their goods in the hope that they might get some of the business that this merchant's energy and enterprise had brought to town.

The practice was both unethical and contemptible. Instead of co-operating with him and helping in the advertising campaign they sought to be free riders and benefit from something they had no part in.

The enterprising merchant finally grew tired of the lone fight to bring trade to his town and moved to a neighboring village, where the merchants were more up to date and where the spirit of co-operation existed in a larger degree.

It happened that in the course of time that with the help of his fellow merchants in the new town, business was drawn from a wider and wider territory and he and all those who labored with him prospered as their enterprises deserved.

The merchants in the town he left still continue to advertise with signs written on pasteboard out of cracker boxes and the town is dwindling slowly into a mere whistling post.

THE ARRIVAL OF BEER.

(Bogalusa (La.) Enterprise)

BOGALUSA is planning to enjoy beer with many other cities of the nation next month. Its sale will be legalized for the first time in the city's history. If places serve beer and wines are operated in a proper way, there will be little cause for worry, but if they are operated in such manner as to bring complaints, it will be only a question of a short time until we will have a return of the speakeasies.

In former days when Bogalusa was "dry" there were plenty of places where you could buy your favorite brew, but the city did not reap any benefit. Now that the sale of beer has been legalized, the city will reap a profit. It will also keep many Bogalusa citizens at home and it will draw people to Bogalusa from nearby towns in Mississippi, yet it should be the duty of the peace officers to see that all places are operated in an orderly manner and sales to minors should be prohibited.

We trust that the return of beer and wines will be taken by the "wets" with the idea in mind that there is plenty more being made while you are getting your fill.

HAVE YOU GOT IT?

THE best description of the flu we have heard was given by the Pontotoc Progress, edited by Grady Cook. "I had the flu. . . . A thousand ants the size of young rabbits dripped their feet in carbo-lic acid and made tracks up and

The best way for you men to 'break in' your ill-smelling pipes would be to get an ax—'break 'em in two' and then throw both pieces in the ash can. So that's that. P. THE American Weekly rejoices in the prosperity of one George End, of Florida, who recently added canned rattlesnakes to the American menu. . . . "Replete with pictures, our article set forth the whole story of the Floridian Food Products Corp., which captures, cooks and cans diamond-back rattlesnakes for human consumption and sells the meat at a price that rivals caviar. A small volume of business had been developed up to the time this story appeared. Only a few people knew of the new rattlesnake delicacy. But within a week after the publication of the article, things began to hum at the snake cannery. Hardly had this magazine reached its 5,000,000 homes when presto! the bewildered Mr. End was swamped with orders.

"Checks, money orders and coins came popping out of the envelopes," Mr. End writes. . . . Every can of rattlesnake meat was shipped from the warehouse and the company was forced to hire more rattlesnake hunters. . . . And it took 13 years to sell us 3.2 beer!

Camelia, spotless flower, fashioned fair,
Virginal as snows from Heaven's height
Thou whitest blossom nature's heart doth wear,
Immaculate they bloom as Angel's bright.

God must have destined thee for
Mary's breast,
For her the flawless mother of mankind,
Upon the altar thou should'st have thy nest,
In silent adoration, joy to find.

O! precious flower, delicate and frail
As purity of souls newborn on earth,
So cold thy petals and so passing pale,
Yet who of nature's pets rivals thy worth.

Camelia, emblem sweet of holy love,
Which should adorn a woman's trembling heart,
The stars thy beauty must envy above,
And all the flowers have thy favor sought.

DO YOU KNOW WHAT THE MAIN FOODS DO IN GROWING CROPS?

SINCE commercial fertilizers have come into use for growing crops, generally speaking, the users of this form of plant food usually apply it as a result of experiment or upon recommendation of a recognized authority without knowing what part of each of the main elements in the mixtures play in plant growth and development.

In previous articles in this paper an effort was made to point out what the elements of plant are and what they combine to produce, now we come to consider three elements most generally needed by soils for profitable crop production. All other elements exist in abundance as a rule.

These three limited elements are nitrogen, phosphoric acid and potash. They are all derived from the soil, that is, they must enter the roots to supply the plant.

Nitrogen is the one element most deficient in soils as a rule, and the element that is most difficult to control so as to feed the plant. It dissolves readily and will leach out of the soil unless there is a growing plant ready to use it, or it may break down from its combinations and get into the air as a gas.

This element has particularly to do with growing stem and leaf. If there is an excess of it a plant will go to stalk too much at the expense of fruit. In producing plant growth it hastens the blooming period, but used in excess it delays maturity.

Phosphoric acid, another scarce element, is required in abundance by the plant to stimulate quick root development and start the plant off with a vigorous growth. It has to do especially with forming the fruit or seed. Used in sufficient quantity, it will increase the amount of fruit to the stalk, add to the quality of fruit or seed, and hasten the maturity of the crop. It balances nitrogen and thus balanced the two co-operate in the elaboration of the greatest amount of fruit.

Potash is important in the plants operation in forming sugar and starch. It strengthens the cell walls of the plants, thus giving stiffness to straw or stem, firmer fruit, resistance to the penetration of fungus diseases, and imparts vigor to the plant that renders it less subject to diseases of all kinds. Potash also improves the quality of fruit.

One of the first steps in successful agriculture is to see whether these three elements of plant food exist in the soil in sufficient quantities to produce maximum profitable crops. If they do not exist in the right amount, they must be supplied. As a matter of fact very few soils have a sufficient amount of all these elements. To supply them in the right proportion and the right amount is the object of studying soil fertilization, and the aim of the manufacturer of commercial plant food.

That there might be a clearer understanding the following is presented to point out what the main plant foods do:

NITROGEN—

1. Promotes leaf and stem growth.
2. Increases proportion stalk to fruit.
3. Hastens blooming.
4. Delays maturity.

PHOSPHORIC ACID—

1. Stimulates early root formation.
2. Gives Vigorous start to plants.
3. Increases ratio fruit to stalk.
4. Improves quality of fruit.
5. Hastens maturity of crop.
6. Balances nitrogen.

POTASH—

1. Important in sugar and starch formation.
2. Gives stiffness to stalk.
3. Decreases susceptibility to disease.
4. Improves quality of fruit.

BORDEAUX MIXTURE A SPRAY SOLUTION.

In last weeks paper a formula was given for making Bordeaux Mixture, probably the most popular and universally used fungicide spray solution in use today. This solution, if applied in time serves as a preventative of diseases and has a revitalizing effect on the plant. If properly mixed and applied to the stems and underside of leaves of plants, tends to harden the outer tissues of the plant, making it more resistant to diseases as well as biting and sucking insects, and by adding arsenate of lead to the solution it becomes a combined fungicide and insecticide.

POPE PIUS USHERS 1933 HOLY YEAR; CEREMONIAL POM

Pontiff Opens Door to St. Peter's With Gold Hammer in Ceremony.

Welding a golden hammer, Pope Pius broke down the Holy door of St. Peter's Saturday morning and inaugurated the Holy Year in commemorating the Holy Year which began Sunday in commemoration of the 1900th anniversary of the passion, death and resurrection of Christ.

Nearly 30 cardinals, royalty, diplomats, the Roman aristocracy, and high prelates from many nations saw the Holy door of brick, loosened, fall away when the Pope struck it thrice with the hammer of solid gold. Among the cardinals were the newly created ones, Pietro Fumasoni-Biondi, former Apostolic delegate to Washington, and Jean Marie Doddridge Villeneuve, archbishop of Quebec.

A great throng crowded close to the lines of papal gendarmes and Swiss guards. Most of them were unable to see anything, since the ritual of the Holy door was held in the Portico, outside the cathedral proper. They later however, saw Pope at close range, when the pontiff entered the basilica to impart his blessing.

Pope Pius' opening of another entrance to the enormous basilica, an entrance usually thrown open only once every 25 years, was symbolic of the stream of several hundred thousand pilgrims the Vatican expects will flow into St. Peter's during the holy year.

The Ritual he used dated back to the time of the Borgia pope, Alexander VI, who decreed a holy year in 1500 A. D.

This solution is most effective as a preventative and should be applied in the early stage of plant growth.

Use This Laxative made from plants

Theodore's BLACK-DRAUGHT is made from plants that grow in the ground, like the garden vegetables you eat at every meal. NATURE has put into these plants an active medicine that stimulates the bowels to act—just as Nature put the materials that sustain your body into the vegetable foods you eat.

In Black-Draught you have a natural laxative, free from synthetic drugs. Its use does not make you have to depend on cathartic chemical drugs to get the bowels to act daily. Now you can get Black-Draught in the form of a SYRUP, for CHILDREN.

JOHN BARRYMORE AS TOPAZE REVEALS IN BIG COMEDY ROLE

Rich Humor and Characterization Brought to the Screen From Broadway Triumph.

There are comedians who long to play Hamlet—in fact, it's almost a distinguishing mark of a comedian to have a desire to interpret Shakespearean roles—but John Barrymore is a tragedian who is just as readily a comedian. His next starring motion picture presents him happily cast as a tremendously human whimsical hero.

Those theatregoers who have followed John Barrymore's career will remember that he was first known for his comedy roles, and though he had startled audiences with the power of his performance in the tragic stage play, "Justice," it was in such farce comedies as "Are You a Mason?" that he first appeared on the screen.

The youngest of the famous Barrymore trio declares that his part in "Topaze" RKO-Radio picture coming Sunday and Monday to the A. & G. Theatre, is his happiest role.

"I have always enjoyed comedy and prefer it to any other sort of work," says the star. "Further, as anyone who has ever watched my parts should know, I love characterizations."

"Topaze" combines both a character and a comedy role, and I was thoroughly in my element playing simple, honest school teacher who eventually becomes a sophisticated egotist and a better trickster than those who tricked him in the first place."

"Topaze" was originally successful in Paris. Benn W. Levy translated the original by Marcel Pagnol and it was a season's hit in New York with Frank Morgan playing the title role. Now it has been groomed for the talking screen, and directed by Harry d'Arrast, that master of light comedy who made "Laughter" a remembered treat.

The title comes from the name of the leading character—Auguste Topaze. He is first seen as a too meek schoolmaster in a French school for boys, teaching that honesty is the best policy. But his scrupulous code loses him his job, and he blunders into a better one with a Baron who needs an honest idiot in his racket of selling plain faucet water as a beneficial mineral water made from formula.

What happens to the ego of Topaze when he finds all his adages about truth given the lie makes the story of "Topaze" not only delicious modern comedy, but a field for interesting characterization.

Paris is the background and RKO-Radio has given special attention to the settings. The cast is headed by Myrna Loy as the pretty coquette whose relations with the Baron, played by Reginald Mason at first shock Topaze and then inspire him to steal her for himself.

A man consulted a real estate agent for a write-up of the property he wanted to sell. When the agent submitted his description of the property, the owner, exclaiming, "Read that again." After second reading, the owner said: "I don't think I'll sell. I've been looking for that kind of place all my life, but until you read that description I didn't know I had it."

"THE OLD RELIABLE" REDUCES FARES TO

ANYTIME—ANYWHERE ON THE L. & N. R. R.

April 1st, the Louisville & Nashville Railroad inaugurates systematic passenger fare reductions as follows: Between all points located on its lines 2¢ a mile,—in clean, roomy coaches providing every travel comfort, complete toilet and smoking facilities, and with available dining car service.

The fare for transportation in sleeping and parlor cars will be at the rate of 3¢ per mile without surcharge.

For example, where the fare has been $5.00, under the new rate in coaches it becomes $2.78. In parlor and sleeping cars where the fare has been $10.00 the fare will be $8.34, with a further saving due to the elimination of the surcharge.

CHEAPER AND SAFER THAN MOTORING

These fares make traveling on Louisville & Nashville Railroad trains a most economical, safe and satisfactory means of transportation. Statistics show that even with the smallest automobiles the cost per mile averages between 5¢ and 6¢ and with larger cars from 8¢ to 10¢.

Avoid roadside delays, tire troubles, detours, hurried meals and the fatigue which comes from the strain of driving.

Board an L. & N. train, relax in comfort—travel economically, with safety and speed—and arrive at your destination fit and ready for work or play.

L. & N. DINING CAR SERVICE WORLD-FAMOUS

You cannot eat a better meal, better cooked or better served in any hotel or restaurant than you can enjoy in large, clean, comfortable L. & N. diners,—and food prices are reasonable.

Whether you travel for business or pleasure save time, save money, save energy by using trains of the Louisville & Nashville Railroad.

Ask any passenger representative or ticket agent of this railroad for particulars and reservations.

BEAUTY—YOUR BIRTHRIGHT

(For the Sea Coast Echo)

By BETTE

LARGE PORES

ANOTHER effective treatment

for large pores is a witchhazel steam. Cleanse your face with cream or with hot water and a mild soap. Make a mask by dipping small pieces of absorbent cotton in witchhazel and placing them on the face until entire face is covered excepting the eyebrows, lids, lips, and nostrils. Leave this on for ten minutes. Then over the mask place a towel wrung out in very hot water. Repeat twice, being careful to leave the mask on the face when you are changing the towels. The steam penetrates the cotton and forces the witchhazel into the skin. Remove the mask, sponge the face with cool then cold water and follow by an ice rub.

After this treatment, when your face is powdered and rouged, the pores will be practically invisible.

KILN

MRS. DOBY, primary teacher of the Kiln Vocational High School, after seventeen years of continuous service retires from her work with the close of this session. It would take the pen of an artist and the words of a poet to paint a true picture of the work this loved teacher has done. She has proven her worth many times over in the skilled efficient way she has handled the thousands of children placed under her care.

She is a kind lovable character. All the pupils in the school for years past have regarded her as the mother of the school. Each child, who began his school work in the Kiln school holds a tender memory in his heart for the first days of school spent under her tender care.

The writer of this article remembers well the lessons learned at her feet. It has been the very great pleasure of this father to place his son under her care for the same guidance that he received. The Kiln School as a whole will miss Mrs. Doby. The primary children will hardly know where to turn to find one so kind, so true, so patient—only the Master and Eternity can reveal the great work done by this master workman.

May Mrs. Doby accept these humble words of appreciation from one who loves her for what she has done not only for him but for his son as well. With the words of the poet may we think of her.

When earth's last picture is painted,
 And the colors are all faded and dried,
 We shall rest and faith we shall need
 it,
 Lie down for an aeon or two;
 Till the Master of all good workmen
 Shall set us to work anew.

And only the Master shall praise us
 And only the Master shall blame us
 And no one shall work for money
 And no one shall work for fame,
 But each for the joy of working
 And each in his separate star
 Shall paint the things as he sees it,
 For the God of the things that are.

—ALEX HART, JR.

PEACE

We see her as she's quietly sitting,
 In her chair by the side of the fire,
 She is a woman, broken and tired and old,
 But with tranquillity few acquire.

Her life has been hard with it's trials,
 Her loved ones, death has claimed,
 But her character is beautiful beyond compare.

Her peacefulness is easily explained,
 A happy light shines in her eyes,
 Her soul is pure as gold,
 She is to be envied by one and all,
 'Tis she's broken and tired and old.

WORK AND PLAY AT S. J. A.

S. J. A. WINS REGIONAL SINGLE TENNIS TOURNAMENT.

Lois Wolf—Champion.

MISS Lois Wolf a junior at S. J. A. won honor both for herself and for her school, when she was declared the champion of the Girls' Single Tennis Tournament which took place in Gulfport Saturday.

Lois had a hard road to travel having to defeat Biloxi, Gulfport and Pass Christian, before being adjudged the victor. She met Biloxi first, winning two sets over this opponent by scores of 6-1, 6-2. Gulfport came next and proved the strongest of the three opponents but Miss Wolf downed that adversary by winning two sets 6-1, 7-5.

The final was played with Pass Christian over whom two sets of 6-0, 6-3 were won.

Those who witnessed Lois' performance commented on her splendid playing and pronounced the girls' "singles" the most thrilling of the games played in Gulfport.

ALICE CAMORS—JOYCE WOLF WIN SECOND PLACE IN DOUBLES.

Alice Camors and Joyce Wolf S. J. A.'s representatives for the Tennis "Doubles" in last Saturday's Tournament started out with a bang and gave Biloxi a hard fight winning the first set from them. The Biloxi team soon rallied and our duet were unable to get back in the lead. However, being the only team to win a set from Biloxi, they came in for second place in the doubles.

S. J. A. is justly proud of these girls and both the student body and faculty unite in a hearty "three cheers" for the girls who fought so hard for S. J. A.

VOCATION WEEK AT S. J. A.

March 19-26 was celebrated among the Sodalis throughout the United States, as National Vocation Week.

At S. J. A. it began on Monday, the Feast of St. Joseph, by a general communion, by attendance at mass, and by special prayers to our patron St. Joseph in order to obtain the necessary light and guidance from above in the solving of this most important problem.

On Tuesday the Sodalis had the pleasure of hearing a very delightful talk on the "Married State," which was most graciously and sweetly given to them by Mrs. E. Arceneaux.

Father Fahey addressed the Children or Mercy, Wednesday on the "Religious Vocation," stressing particularly the motives and spirit which usually prompt this choice of life. The exquisite little letter which Father Fahey quoted from the "Life of the Little Flower," as also the final prayer with which he concluded his talk will always be remembered by all the girls who had the privilege of hearing Father Fahey.

Miss Juliette Perre read an interesting paper Wednesday afternoon on "Nursing as a Profession." At the close of the paper the Sodalis showed their interest in this career by playing Miss Perre, with questions which she answered most clearly and simply to the satisfaction of the inquirers.

Friday afternoon the twenty minutes preceding the "Way of the Cross" were devoted to the answering of the questions on "Vocations" in general, which had been asked by many interested Sodalis.

THANKS TO SPEAKERS.

The Sodality wishes to thank Father Fahey, Mrs. E. Arceneaux and Miss J. Perre for having so generously co-operated with it in the observance of "National Vocation Week." The girls promise these kind friends a special remembrance in their prayers.

VOCATION POSTER DRAWS MANY TO BULLETIN BOARDS.

Posters on "Vocations" naturally covered the major space of the Sodality bulletin board last week. One poster in particular, showing the vocations, Lawyer, Doctor, Nurse, Teacher, Nun, Artist, etc., surrounded by a great big question mark proved most attractive to the High School girls and drew many to seek their "fate" from it. Time without number, young ladies were caught standing before this poster, eyes closed and fore-finger pointing to one of the labels—in an effort to let "chance" tell them what they should be. So it is that everyone's vacation has been settled for her though some of us are hoping against hope that the "little poster" did not speaking the truth.

And speaking of the bulletin board reminds us that we Sodalis wish to give a rising vote of thanks to our artist, Joyce Wolf, chairman of the publicity committee who is responsible not only for this poster but for the numberless other interesting ones, with which she has kept our bulletin board supplied since the beginning of this school year.

SODALITY NEWS.

At the meeting of the Children of Mary last Thursday, it was decided that the week of April 2-9 should be set aside as our "Mission Week." Accordingly plans were made to observe this special time. A program was drawn up as follows:

Monday—The Sophs are responsible for a raffle.

Tuesday—The Freshmen give a home-made popcorn sale.

Wednesday—Big baseball game to be given at 3 o'clock. First room vs. Second Room.

Thursday—The Juniors give a "sandwich sale."

Friday—The Seniors give an ice-cream sale.

The proceeds realized will go to the Mission Fund and the redemption of pagan babies.

The contest which the Queen's Work is holding to decide the 12 most prominent American Catholic Women of the past century, was discussed. It was finally decided that a list of suggestive names be posted upon the bulletin board, and at our next meeting each girl may submit her choice.

The Sodalis were reminded that this is still the Holy Season of Lent, and that now more than ever they should make up for lost time for this is Passion Tide and then there are only two more weeks remaining in which to prepare for the glorious feast of the Resurrection. The groups of girls appointed to attend Mass and receive Holy Communion will be placed upon the bulletin board as a reminder for those who need checking up.

The groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Lacoste, the former well-known business man of New Orleans, and Mrs. Lacoste well-known for her many activities, while the charming and accomplished bride is the elder daughter of County Attorney and Mrs. E.
